

“ At Officine Gullo we manufacture considering much longer timespans than the industrial production in our sector. We create products that can be updated and improved, but never destroyed or forsaken. We work and design for modern living and for the antiques of tomorrow. Every element provides resilience, beauty and prestige derived from the materials used. In every creation, Florentine traditions are blended with meticulous research into function and beauty: we refine the steel structures of our cooking ranges with elements in hand-hammered brass, copper, high-thickness galvanic finishes and engraving, in the same way that artisans in Florence have forged metal for centuries, crafting unique works of art. We are proud to add our name to everything that comes from our workshops, safe in the knowledge that this name will stand the test of time together with our creations.

Colours and finishings

Our collection can be produced in any of the 213 RAL k7 colours in both matte and glossy finish.
Other personalized colours can be custom created. Other finishings are available on request.

The printing methods of the catalogues can determine colour differences. For a correct evaluation of tone and colour it is necessary to refer to the physical samples. In any case, metal and the artisanal finishing processes are subject to natural and inevitable differences in tone/surface texture that compared to the physical sample may result as being different.

Burnished Brass

Natural brass is a "live" material which stains very easily because its surface oxidises when in contact with any substance. To reduce this effect we burnish our trims. This finishing is obtained by immersing the brass into a specific acid, accelerating its "aging" process and ensuring an even, darker finish.

24kt Gold

This finishing is obtained in a galvanic bath process by merging a 24kt gold layer onto the surfaces of our previously polished solid brass components.

Brushed Copper

This finishing is obtained in a galvanic bath process by merging a copper layer onto the surfaces of our solid brass components.

Polished Chrome

This finishing is obtained in a galvanic bath process by merging a chrome layer onto the surfaces of our previously polished solid brass components.

Brushed Chrome

This finishing is obtained in a galvanic bath process by merging a chrome layer onto the surfaces of our previously satinized or brushed solid brass components.

Brushed Nickel

This finishing is obtained in a galvanic bath process by merging a nickel layer onto the surfaces of our previously satinized or brushed solid brass components.

Gunmetal

This finishing is obtained in a galvanic bath process by merging a dark nickel layer onto the surfaces of our previously satinized or brushed solid brass components.
